End of the Week update!

Dear Parents,

After our first week back of what seemed like a long time of us working remotely with so many of our families, I wanted to say a huge thank you for your support in what has been a very successful return to school. However, most importantly, we would like to say a huge well done to our children whose behaviour on their return has been excellent and their maturity in getting back into learning has been exemplary.

Teachers have been delighted to see that through their assessments, much of the virtual learning has stuck and are therefore confident to progress their children's learning. It remains crucial that we continue this positivity. Research strongly indicates that parental curiosity in children's learning, has great impact on academic attainment and achievement so do ask your children about their learning and the types of activities they have been doing at school, taking an interest and delight in those steps to success.

We hope you all have a fabulous weekend with some much needed rest. To start your weekend on a high, enjoy the montage of photos, which you can find here showing how we have been working this week to develop our children's physical health, their cognitive development and social and emotional success.

Yours sincerely and with best wishes,

Mrs Hannah Beckett
